The 'Dun & Bradstreet Corporate Awards 2014' seek to recognise and felicitate corporate India's leading companies from various sectors. Speaking at the awards ceremony, Mr Kaushal Sampat, President & CEO – India, Dun & Bradstreet said, "There are 375 companies that are common between the 2009 and 2014 editions, i.e., these are the consistent performers who have continued to remain in the list of Top 500 Companies for all five years. In fact, 37 of these 375 companies have grown from small to mid-cap or mid-cap to large categories, truly a commendable achievement in these challenging times." he added.

The awards ceremony also marked the launch of the 14th edition of Dun & Bradstreet India's premium publication, 'India's Top 500 Companies 2014' by eminent chief guest, and former Union Minister, Dr Arun Shourie.

Also present at the event were Mr VP Nandakumar, Managing Director & Chief Executive Officer, Manappuram Finance; Dr Alok Bharadwaj, Executive Vice President, Canon India; Dr MR Rao, Provost, Woxsen School of Business; and Mr Binod Singh, President, CEO & Member of the Board, Ilantus Technologies.

The awards methodology was applied to this list of Top 500 companies, duly classified in their respective sectors. The model is based on the premise of recognising the twin virtues of size and growth of the companies while awarding them. The analyst team identified pertinent financial parameters to fulfil this premise and assigned weights to them. Winners were chosen on the basis of a composite score of these weighted parameters. The parameters considered for ranking the companies include - total income, net profit, net worth, net profit margin, return on net worth, average market capitalisation for FY13, growth in total income and growth in net profit.
